THE RUSSELL BROTHERS

By Virginia Vann Perry

In more than 40 books Colorado writers have honored and paid tribute to William Greenberry Russell as the “Sutter of Colorado”. Oklahoma historians have overlooked him. Green Russell had three brothers—John, Oliver and Levi. There was unusual closeness in their relationship and loyalty to each other—possibly fostered by the early death of their father and a need to stand together

Green Russell was a remarkable man. He participated in three gold rushes, Georgia, California and Colorado—all within 30 years. Green’s father had settled the family near Auraria, Georgia where gold was discovered on Cherokee land. When Green was 12 years old he was accompanying his father on mining and surveying trips. He learned to pan gold by watching his father and also gained skill in handling surveying instruments. James Russell died in 1835 leaving Green at age 15 to become head of the family. After the estate was settled there was very little left. Green went to work in a neighbor’s mine to support his mother, two sisters, ages 16 and 12 and his brothers, John, age 9, Oliver, age 7, and Levi, age 4.

At age 25 Green married Susan Willis, a young Cherokee neighbor. He had supported his widowed mother for ten years and had been like a father to his young siblings.

We have all heard of the three means of communication—“telephone, telegraph and tell a woman”. The first two methods of communication may not have been available at this time, but it was a former Georgia woman, Mrs. Peter Wimmer, who spread reports back home in Georgia of gold in California. In 1848 her husband was working for Captain Sutter and she was cooking for his crew at the time James Marshall turned up the first particles of gold at Sutter's Mill. Marshall and Captain Sutter tried to keep the find secret. Certainly Mrs. Wimmer was not one to withhold such information especially when she saw them test the shining metal by pouring vinegar on it and boiling it in her lye soap kettle. She wrote to Georgia. It was enough to start a stampede.

Immediately miners got ready, organized large parties or took off in small groups, all seeking the quickest route to California. Georgia miners were considered the best in the area at the time and Green Russell was one of the most experienced. In prospecting he had a sureness about gold and where to look for it that amazed his fellow workers. When Green was ready to leave for California later in 1848, other Georgia miners were anxious to accept his leadership, among them his brother, John, some of Susan's family and a number of neighbors. When the prospectors left home late in 1848, Green decided to take a northern route, through the new Cherokee Nation lands in Indian Territory beyond the Mississippi River. The Cherokees in Indian Territory had known about gold in Georgia and were interested in the news from California. A few joined the Georgia party.

From the Cherokee country the route followed the Arkansas River across the plains, turned north and skirted the Rocky Mountains and Fort Laramie, then went west along the Oregon-California Trail and came into the gold region from the north, a 3000 mile journey mostly on horseback and with pack mules. Thanks to Mrs. Wimmer's letter the small party of miners from Lumpkin County, Georgia arrived well in advance of the tens of thousands who later poured into California.

By the end of the year Green and John Russell had mined so much gold they were ready to return home. John did not expect to return to California but Green had promised to bring his younger brothers back for their chance at gold. One of the brothers always stayed in Georgia to look after their mother and women in the family. Green and John made the return trip by sailing from San Francisco to Panama City where they crossed the Isthmus on foot, by canoe and rented mules. When they reached the Atlantic side, they took passage on a paddle wheeler to New Orleans and a steamer up the Mississippi River.

When they arrived in Lumpkin County, John married Frances McClure, a young Cherokee lass, and established a mercantile business. Green, however, returned to California in 1850 with brothers, Oliver, now 22, and Levi, now 19, and a few neighbors. At Panama City they booked passage on the S. S. Oregon that carried news that California had been made a state of the union.

Two years later once again with enough gold the three brothers returned home. Their ship was quarantined because of cholera at Key West, Florida. When they recovered they headed through Florida to Georgia. Levi put himself through medical school in Pennsylvania. Green bought 500 acres, known as the Savannah Plantation on the Etowa River, and settled down with his wife, Susan, and his four year old son, John. He also brought his mother and his younger brothers and sisters there as well.

As a result of the nationwide money panic in 1857, Green decided to invest in land. When land was opened up in the Kansas Territory, he and Oliver, now married, decided to stake out claims there. They put in crops and left cousins, Robert and James Pierce, in charge for the winter

With gold mining in his blood, it wasn't long before Green decided to return to the Rockies to prospect in an area he had noticed on his first trip through. Green made arrangements with John Beck to organize a party of Cherokees in the Cherokee Nation under the command of George Hicks. When joined with the Georgia party they numbered 104 which included his brothers, Oliver and Levi. They arrived at Ralston's Creek late in June, 1858. After prospecting less than two weeks the greater part of the company became discouraged with the meager amount of gold found and left July 4, 1858. Only 12 stayed with Green and his two brothers. They packed up their belongings and started up the Platte River toward the mountains. That very day only eight miles away, they found the first indication of gold.

The Georgia miners decided Green and Oliver would return to Georgia taking most of the gold to buy equipment. Dr. Levi volunteered to take charge of the winter camp later named Auraria after their home in Georgia. They were nearly three months reaching home. They spent Christmas there and in the spring left Atlanta on March 20, 1859 with 170 in the party. They arrived in the Rockies in less than two months. Green led his band into the mountains and in a remarkably short time found a vein of gold that turned out to be one of the richest in the district.

In September a Denver newspaper recorded Green Russell and three of his men were in Denver City dispatching 103 pounds of gold home to Georgia. A year later 22 men from Russell Gulch headed back to Georgia with three wagons hauling bullion. Things were going well, but anti-southern sentiment arose and by 1862 the Russells endured increased insults, hostility and jumping of their properties. By June, 1861 the Russell brothers and a dozen others met secretly in Denver to plan their escape eastward and home through New Mexico and Texas on the Fort Smith road known as the "Back Door to the Confederacy".

In July, 1862 the Russell brothers and 18 other Georgians left Denver with $36,000.00 in gold and mining equipment in seven wagons announcing their plans to prospect in the San Louis Valley. Along the way they were joined by several other fugitive Southerners including a recent widower, Mr. Potts, and his daughters. Dr. Levi discovered one of the new additions had smallpox and soon seventeen more came down with the disease, including Green and Oliver. In addition they soon found themselves trapped between hostile Comanches in full war regalia ahead of them and Union Calvary men behind them. They surrendered to the Calvary but a Union officer had bribed the Indians to help capture the southerners, promising them one-half of the spoils of the guns and horses and one of the captured men to torture. Only an Indian Agent with the army was able to rescue the Russell party. The captured party was taken 200 miles back to Ft. Union northwest of Las Vegas except those too sick to be moved. These included Oliver and Green. Dr. Levi stayed behind to take care of the sick.

Upon recovering the three brothers were taken to Ft. Union and detained as political prisoners of war. Everything had been confiscated. In February, 1863, four months after their capture, Brigadier General, James H. Carleton, Commander of the War Department of New Mexico, released the brothers and their companions and all their possessions on the condition they would take the Oath of Allegiance to the United States. They accepted the terms. After collecting their gold at Santa Fe they headed north back to Denver. Levi and some of the others decided to go to Montana where there had been reports of gold strikes. Green and Oliver were determined to make their way back to Georgia somehow. They traveled through the north, hiding out during the day and traveling at night, sometimes so hungry they chewed slickelm bark.

Once they reached home Green decided he could not stand by while others were fighting to protect their homeland. He didn't feel obligated to honor the pledge of allegiance to the Union since it was made under duress. In August, 1863 he and Oliver formed a volunteer company, listed in Confederate War Records as Captain W. G. Russell's Company, Georgia Calvary. Oliver was a Lieutenant. John Russell was a Captain in Light Artillery. Dr. Levi Russell made it back to Georgia during the last year of the war. The brothers took the Oath of Allegiance to the Union after the surrender on April 9, 1865.

The Russells returned home after the war to a devastated and destitute South. Obviously it would take years to recover. They still had investments in Colorado and the west seemed the best place to start over. Oliver and his family decided to relocate in Texas. Dr. Levi had established a successful practice there. John and Frances moved to Indian Territory where her Cherokee heritage entitled her to land. Green and Susan settled on a ranch in Colorado. Their son,, John Randolph, was killed in a mining accident at age 27. Green never seemed to recover from his death.

In September, 1876 Green wrote a friend that he and Susan planned to return to Georgia. They would break the trip by spending the winter with John and Frances in Indian Territory. By spring John had convinced Green to remain there. Susan and Frances McClure were cousins and Susan was also eligible for land. Green, Susan and all the children became ill with malaria. On August 14, 1877 Green seemed well enough to walk out in the yard. He suffered either a stroke or heart attack while chopping wood.

Ten days later he died. He was 57 years old and still in his prime. A great man had gone from the earth. Green's family were not the only ones to mourn his passing. There would never be another one to take the place of Green Russell. He is buried in the Briartown Cemetery in southern Muskogee County. Some of his descendants still live there.. Other descendants still live in Northeastern Oklahoma. John and Frances Russell are buried near Westville, Oklahoma.

Notes:

- (1) The 1851 Siler Roll makes note that Frances McClure's brothers, John and James McClure, were in California and expected to return soon.
- (2) The 1852 California State Census to apportion legislators is excellent to research for ancestors thought to have participated in the gold rush.
- (3) James McClure is the Grandfather of my mother, Hazel McClure Vann. The McClures came to the Canadian District, I.T. after the Civil War at the same time as Frances McClure and John Russell

1930 Census Presented by Sue Tolbert January 2002 MCGS Members Meeting

--Start Your 1930 Census Research Now!

You can "get started" now with your 1930 census research so you can find your relatives more quickly when Apr. 1 comes. Here's a checklist of things to do:

1. Make a list of all the people you want to look for in the 1930 census. Think broadly--ancestors, their siblings, cousins, etc.--anybody to whom you are related.

2. Collect addresses for these people from city directories if they lived in a city. NARA has several hundred rolls of circa 1930 city directories purchased from a private vendor. For the complete list, see Circa 1930 City Directories Available at NARA. Many libraries have city directories for local cities.

<http://www.nara.gov/genealogy/citydirs.html>

3. Identify the enumeration district (E.D.) in which each address was located. There are currently four ways to do this:

* Use NARA microfilm publication T1224, Descriptions of Census Enumeration Districts, 1830-1950, rolls 61-90, which contains text descriptions of the 120,105 enumeration districts used by the Bureau of the Census in 1930.

For the 1930 census, each enumeration district (E.D.) number had two parts: a prefix and a suffix. The prefix is the county number and the suffix is the individual E.D. For example, Amanda Twp. in Allen County, Ohio, was E.D. 2-1, with "2" representing Allen County and "1" representing Amanda Twp.

Here is example edited data from Allen County, Ohio:

E.D. Number Description

2-1 Amanda Twp.

2-2 Elida village

2-3 American Twp. excluding Elida village

2-4 Harrod village

2-5 Auglaize Twp. excluding Harrod village

2-6 Bath Twp.

2-7 Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane

1930 Census (continued)

2-8 Lafayette village

2-9 Jackson Twp. excluding Lafayette village

2-10 Delphos city, Ward 1, bounded by (N) city limits; (E) city limits, 13th extended, Franklin extended, Franklin, 10th extended, city limits, Ft. Jennings Rd., city limits; (S) 3d; (W) Miami & Erie Canal.

2-11 Delphos city, Ward 2, bounded by (N) 3d; (E) city limits, Euclid Ave., Euclid Ave. extended, city limits; (S) city limits, Spencer Ave., South, South extended; (W) Miami & Erie Canal.

2-12 (and so forth)

* Use NARA microfilm publication M1930, Enumeration District Maps for the Fifteenth Census of the United States, 1930 (36 rolls), which contains color reproductions of 5,000 maps. Larger maps were filmed five times: an overall shot, then a shot of each quarter of the map. The Bureau of the Census marked the E.D. number and E.D. boundaries in orange pencil on these maps. These maps are particularly useful for larger cities, but are also helpful for rural areas.

* Use NARA microfilm publication M1931, Index to Selected City Streets and Enumeration Districts, 1930 Census (7 rolls). For more than 50 cities, each street is listed along with the E.D. number(s) for that street. If the street was in more than one E.D., it gives the range of addresses found in each E.D. For example, 100-500 Erie Street might be in E.D. 5-10, and 501-1000 Erie Street might be in E.D. 5-11. As of Jan. 18, 2002, M1931, rolls 1-3 and 5-7 are available at the National Archives Building, 700 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20408-0001, and at NARA's Regional Facilities in 13 major cities. As soon as roll 4 is completed, M1931 will be available for sale, and a complete roll list will be posted on this web page. Thank you for your patience.)

- Use the Database for Identifying in which Enumeration District(s) a Street is Located (100 largest U.S. cities) by Joel Weintraub.

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/ITWIT_Census1930/

4. Find your Native American ancestors in NARA microfilm publication M595, Indian Census Rolls, 1885-1940 (692 rolls) now! Indians enrolled in tribes and living on Indian Reservations are found in this microfilm publication.

FRAUDULENT LINEAGES

The following information was compiled by Mr. Robert Charles Anderson, CG, FASG of 2 Fenway, Derry, NH 03038, and published in Volume 19, Numbers 1 & 2, 1991 of the Genealogical Journal of the Utah Genealogical Association, PO Box 1144, Salt Lake, Utah 84110. The title of the article is; We Wuz Robbed!

Mr. Anderson is the Director of the Great Migration Study Project sponsored by the New England Historic Genealogical Society. He is a Certified Genealogist, a fellow of the American Society of Genealogists, a fellow of the Utah Genealogical Association, and has published numerous articles in The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, The American Genealogist, the National Genealogical Society Quarterly, and The Genealogist, as well as the Genealogical Journal.

Professional genealogists and serious researchers alike, have been aware of the forgeries and frauds committed by GUSTAVE ANJOU (1863-1942) and we of this Society believe this material should be brought to the attention of all who may come in contact with any the publications listed below.

The sad fact is that Gustave Anjou was not a genealogist, but a forger of genealogical records that have been passed on for years to unwary clients and then through researchers who believed, or wanted to believe, they had a true lineage. They in turn republished the material in their own works and the cycle continues even today.

Gustave Anjou produced these "genealogies" for wealthy clients at a price of around $9,000 and the client, needless to say, always received what they wanted.

In the words of Mr. Anderson;

" A typical Anjou pedigree displays four recognizable features:

1. A dazzling range of connections between dozens of immigrants to New England; for example, connections far beyond what may be seen in pedigrees produced by anyone else;
2. Many wild geographical leaps, outside the normal range of migration patterns;
3. An overwhelming number of citations to documents that actually exist, and actually include what Anjou says they include; and
4. Here and there an invented document, without citation, which appears to support the many connections noted under item 1 above".

The above mentioned publication is one that belongs in your genealogy library. I urge you all to read the detailed account of this article and the five other genealogy fraud articles that appear with it. Included is another detailed article about Gustave Anjou's life and forgery methods, entitled Gustave, We Hardly Knew Ye: by Gordon L. Remington, editor of the Genealogical Journal.

Murphy's Law for Genealogists

The public ceremony in which your distinguished ancestor participated and at which the platform collapsed under him turned out to be a hanging.

When at last after much hard work you have solved the mystery you have been working on for two years, your aunt says, "I could have told you that"

You grandmother's maiden name that you have searched for four years was on a letter in a box in the attic all the time.

You never asked your father about his family when he was alive because you weren't interested in genealogy then.

The will you need is in the safe on board the Titanic.

Copies of old newspapers have holes occurring only on the surnames.

John, son of Thomas, the immigrant whom your relatives claim as the family progenitor, died on board ship at age 10.

Your great grandfather's newspaper obituary states that he died leaving no issue of record.

The keeper of the vital records you need has just been insulted by another genealogist.

The relative who had all the family photographs gave them all to her daughter who has no interest in genealogy and no inclination to share.

The only record you find for your great grandfather is that his property was sold at a sheriff's sale for insolvency.

The one document that would supply the missing link in your dead-end line has been lost due to fire, flood or war.

The town clerk to whom you wrote for the information sends you a long handwritten letter which is totally illegible.

The spelling of your European ancestor's name bears no relationship to its current spelling or pronunciation.

None of the pictures in your recently deceased grandmother's photo album have names written on them.

No one in your family tree ever did anything noteworthy, owned property, was sued or was named in wills.

Murphy's Law for Genealogists

You learn that your great aunt's executor just sold her life's collection of family genealogical materials to a flea market dealer "somewhere in New York City."

Ink fades and paper deteriorates at a rate inversely proportional to the value of the data recorded.

The 37 volume, sixteen thousand page history of your county of origin isn't indexed.

You finally find your great grandparent's wedding records and discover that the brides' father was named John Smith.

[For the following, insert your state/county of choice]

Your distinguished ancestor, related to the governor of Victoria, turns out to be the caterer who once cooked dinner for him.

Your distinguished ancestor who was 1. Secretary of the Mint 2. Brought out from England to be the first accountant for the Sandhurst railway Victoria, turns out to be a clerk in the railways.

Your distinguished ancestor who was well educated, went to Heidelberg University and spoke several languages, shows up in the census as an apprentice to a German silversmith, in Hereford no less!

HEREDITY: A GENEALOGY POEM BY GRANDPA TUCKER

I saw a duck the other day.
It had the feet of my Aunt Faye.
Then it walked, was heading South.
It waddled like my Uncle Ralph.

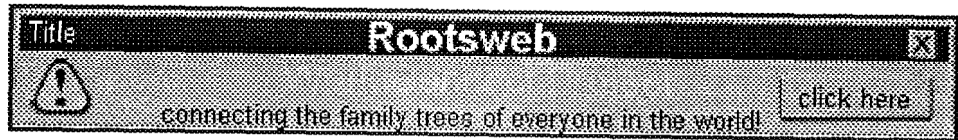

And when it turned, I must propose,
Its bill was formed like Aunt Jane's nose.
I thought, "Oh, no! It's just my luck,
Someday I'll look just like a duck!"

I sobbed to Mom about my fears,
And she said, "Honey, dry your tears.
You look like me, so walk with pride.
Those folks are all from Daddy's side."
