Muskogee County Genealogical Society Quarterly

Volume 28 Issue 4

October —December, 2011

Exciting Society News for 2012

Your society board of directors has been busy this year planning for several new changes for the upcoming year. Some of the changes are to prevent an increase in cost of living and others are specifically made to bring our society into the digital age.

The amount of the annual dues is now $20.00. All renewals have been changed to the first of January, each year beginning 2012. If you have paid your dues during the year of 2010, your renewal will be prorated according to the month and amount last paid.

The quarterly will continue to be published four times a year. However, instead of paper copies, it will now be available only on a “members-only” section of the Muskogee County Genealogical Society website. It will be smaller in size, only about ten pages, and only contain articles and pictures pertaining to the history of the area and its people. Any member who would want a hard copy is permitted to print it from their own home computer.

A newsletter will now be issued on a monthly basis, beginning in January, 2012. It will be limited to three or four topics and be published as approximately one page. It will contain up-to-date information on new events and opportunities for members and will also be available on the MCGS website. Printed copies may also be made by members. It was our intention to have a sample copy of the digital newsletter at the Christmas party, that was prevented by time constraints due to the earlier date of the meeting.

Lists such as New Books in the Grant Foreman Room, Indexes to marriage, deaths and funeral homes will be published as separate entities on the MCGS website. Any non-member making inquiries will be given the opportunity to join the membership and access to the members-only section.

I know there are going to be many questions and I have probably omitted some of the information regarding these changes. Please feel free to contact the officers of the society board of directors. With the work of the nominating committee and volunteers for the various positions, the future board members are: President, Jere Harris; Vice President, Alissa Gage; Secretary, Stacy Blundell; Treasurer, Mary Downing; Past President, Sue Tolbert; Editor, Nancy Lasater. Appointed positions: Research, Barbara Downs; Publications, Sue Tolbert. Liaisons are: Three Rivers Museum, Sue Tolbert; Muskogee Public Library, Nancy Calhoun

The Ryan/Bryan Connection

One recent evening was spent looking through some of my dad's things stored under the bed. In the box was the funeral book from granddad's funeral, sympathy cards, etc. All of the pallbearers' names were familiar – except one, Martin Bryan.

When the Ryans came to America from Ireland (ca. 1861), they settled in St. Charles County, Missouri, near St. Louis. Philip, Cornelius, Thomas and Margaret arrived with their father from Tipperary, Ireland. Also living in St. Charles County were the Bryans and Scanlans, Irish too. Margaret (Maggie) Ryan married Edward Bryan and they settled in St. Charles County. The rest of the Ryans picked up and moved to Marshall, Saline County, Missouri. Philip had married Anna Scanlan whose family had moved en masse to Chapman, Kansas.

Could Martin Bryan, who was in my granddad's funeral in 1965, be related to the Bryan family that Maggie had married into? Census records from 1920 showed a Martin Bryan in Saline County, age 4, whose parents were Ned and Mary Bryan. Ned Bryan appears only in this one census - no Ned Bryan anywhere including the Missouri Digital Archives. Looking at FindAGrave I found a John Bryan and Anna Cass Bryan buried in the Ridge Park Cemetery, Marshall, Saline County, Missouri (a picture was even included with the cemetery entries!). There was only one child shown of these parents, and it wasn't Ned. I went back to the Missouri Digital Archives to take a look at each of the Bryan family members who died in Saline County. It so happened that the first one was Edward Malachi Bryan – it's Ned! The death certificate provided by the Archives indicated his parents to be John and Anna Cass Bryan (same ones buried in the Marshall cemetery), and his wife's name was Mary.

Since John Bryan and his wife were of the same generation as my Philip and Maggie Ryan, they might have known each other in St. Charles County. In fact, Edward Malachi (Ned) Bryan was born in St. Charles, St. Charles County, Missouri. I will be looking to see if John Bryan and Maggie's husband, Edward, were brothers. These events seem to indicate that the Ryan and Bryan families traveled together up the Missouri River from St. Louis, settled together in Saline County, and continued to be in contact with each other two generations later.

The Bly Family

The picture was taken in the spring of 1896 in front of the sod house near Marysville, Kansas. The sod house had glass windows which I find unusual. When they came to Oklahoma I am not sure, but it may have been in one of the land runs. They settle near Yale, OK and then move to eastern Oklahoma in the early 1900's.

The people in the picture are from the horse to the right:

Delcina (Delcie) Bly born 1886 in Kansas year of death I don't know but she is buried in the Mormon cemetery in Independence Mo.

Ole N. Bly born 1892 in Kansas, served in WWI, died @ 1946 and is buried in the Veteran's section of the Pawhuska cemetery.

Mary Jane Walker By (my great grandmother) born 1865 in Indiana. She died in 191950 and is buried in the cemetery at Nowata, Oklahoma.

The baby girl in the high chair is my grandmother Mary Goldie (or Goldie Mary) born in Kansas. February 5, 1896. She went by the name of Goldie. She died May, 1972 and is buried at Memorial Park in Tulsa, OK.

Alfred Ray Bly born 1890 in Kansas. Where he died is unknown as he left the family when they moved to eastern Oklahoma.

Alfred Jewett Bly (my great grandfather) born in 1865 in Iowa, with his father being born in New York. He died in 1944 and is buried in the cemetery at Nowata. Up through the 1910 census he is listed as a farmer, but after moving to Nowata before the 1920 census he had a horse and wagon and peddled various items, including patent medicines and sample housewares.

Pioneer Creek Indian Woman Mrs. Muskogee Yargee Ross

By Susie Ross Martin

Ella M. Robinson, Interviewer, August 23, 1937

My mother, Mrs. Muskogee Yargee Ross, was born near the Canadian River fifteen miles southwest of old North Fork Town in the Creek Nation, about 1844. (exact date not known).

She was the daughter of Captain Checartah Yargee and Millie McQueen. Her grandfather, Peter McQueen, was the son of James McQueen, a Scotchman, who lived among the Muskogees for ninety years and died at the age of one hundred and twenty-eight.

Peter McQueen married Betsy, daughter of Colonel Ben Durant and Sophia McGillivray. They had three daughters, Millie, Nancy and Tallassee. Millie was my grandmother. Yargee, son of Big Warrior, married all the McQueen sisters.

Mother was the grand-niece of the noted Alexander McGillivray of the Muskogee, Creek, Seminole and Chickamauga Cherokees. He was known as the "Great Alexander" and was said by authorities to be the most brilliant man born on Alabama soil. He married Sehoy Marchand of Hickory Town, who belong to the Wind Clan.

Lachlan McGillivray opened a trading business and became quite wealthy. They had three daughters. Sophia married Ben Durant; Jeanette married LeClerc Milfort, a noted Frenchman; and Sehoy married Colonel Tait of the British Army. One son, Alexander, who became noted, married Vacey Cornells, daughter of Joseph Cornells of South Carolina, a French Huguenot.

Captain Checartah Yargee and his wife lived in the Muskogee Nation in Alabama until the Indians were forcibly removed from their homes in 1838. My grandfather, Checartah Yargee, was a man of wealth and when he came west to their new home, brought his stock and slaves to the new country and settled on the Canadian River near old North Fork Town. They, Too, belonged to the Wind Clan and Hickory Ground Town as did all their people in the old Nation. One of their little boys died on the route westward. They buried him by a big river of which they did not know the name (Mississippi). As they were bringing their horses, they rode a greater part of the way on horseback. One little boy, John, made the entire trip on horseback.

My grandfather Yargee was one of the largest slave owners among the Muskogees. As his rule was never to sell or part with a slave he became the largest slave owner among his tribe.

It is said that his negro quarters had the appearance of a small town. He erected a church house for their exclusive use and always gave them Saturdays and Sundays to spend as they chose, but expected all to attend church. He was a devout Baptist.

His family consisted of himself, his wife, two daughters, Muskogee and Louise, and one son, John. As he was a bull blood and his wife a half-breed, little or no English was spoken in the home. My mother said the only English words she heard her father speak were, "Damn nigger" when his personal servant failed to do as he was told. They lived in a large commodious house built entirely of logs as were all the negro cabins. Each girl was given a personal maid as soon as they passed young childhood and ceased to require the services of a nurse.

Rose Geaser, a big black woman who lived west of Muskogee for many years, was my mother's maid and came occasionally to see her in after years.

Mother attended the little neighborhood school and learned to read and write in English. She spoke English quite well but never forgot her native language.

During the Civil War a large number of the Muskogee or Creeks, as the tribe became known in their western home, moved to Fort Gibson in the Cherokee Nation for protection from the ravages of war. It was there my mother met and married my father, Mr. Joshua Ross, a member of a prominent Cherokee family.

As was the custom of the Indians for the parents to select a husband or wife for their children, he was their choice as a husband for her. As it was equally agreeable to both of them, they were married in 1964 and lived happily together until her death in 1913.

My father was employed in the Suttler's store in Fort Gibson and they lived there until 1867 when they moved to Grand Saline and lived on a farm. Their first child, Joseph, was born and died in Fort Gibson. My oldest sister, Rosalee, and myself were born at Grand Saline.

In 1871 when the MK&T Railroad was building through the Indian Territory, my father moved to the little village on the prairie that had been named Muskogee in honor of the tribe in whose territory it was located. Oncoming here, father opened a general mercantile store on the east side of the railroad at the intersection of what is now Cherokee Street and East Broadway. It was known as the Red Front Store. As mother was, by right of blood, entitled to all the land she wanted, they selected a trip lying directly east of the Katy Railroad to where the Frisco tracks now are; extending north as far as Callahan Street and south to Okmulgee Avenue. They enclosed it with a rail fence. The streets were mere roads leading to the country. Mother said he spent the first night in a little shack built of odd pieces of lumber and dry goods boxes that answered for a hotel. Mr. and Mrs. James Mitchell operated it as a boarding house. It was located on the Katy Railroad just east of the tracks. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell moved across the tracks and ran a large hotel where the Katy Station now stands, known as the Mitchell House. It was known throughout the southwest for its good food.

My father built a little two room boxed house with a shed room for a kitchen, on what is now East Broadway in the six hundred block and into that they moved with their two little girls.

The prairie grass was so tight that mother kept us close at home for fear we might get lost. I remember we could only see the tops of the mover's wagons as they trekked across the prairie on their way to Texas.

My grandparents died soon after the close of the Civil War and we children never knew them. My Uncle John Yargee married and had five daughters. They still live on Canadian River. Two of his daughters, Rose and Jennie, attended school at Northfield, Massachusetts, in 1880.

After moving to Muskogee, my older brother was born and mother's time was chiefly taken up with the care of her children. As she was young and inexperienced, father thought a book on child rearing might be of benefit to her and he bought one. The only thing I remember her saying she learned from it was "never punish a child when you were angry" and she never did. Often making us wait for hours before deciding just what to do, greatly to our discomfort.

After the death of her sister, Louise, she took her two children, a boy and girl, and they lived with us until the girl was married and the boy died in young manhood.

Mother knew all the Indian remedies used in sickness. Ginseng and Ball Willow were used in pneumonia or winter fever as they called it. Life Everlasting was also used for colds. Peach leaves pounded up were made into poultices' Slippery Elm bark was used for poultices to reduce inflammation and the water from it was used as a drink for fevers. Soot, taken from the chimney, would stop the flow of blood in case of accidents. Mother knew a secret way to cure Jaundice and successfully cured a case on myself. She did not touch you or do anything that you could detect but all of a sudden I was over it. She said the secret could be known to only one in the family but promised to tell me, but never did. She had learned to cook when a young girl in her mother's home and knew all the ways to prepare Indian dishes. She made blue dumpling in berry and wild grape seasons. Puska was parched corn reduced to powder that made a refreshing drink and the Indians all carried it when they went on journeys, as it also served as food. Puska was always on hand. Ben and crackling bread was her favorite kind of bread. As all Indians are, she was extremely fond of fish and we had it often. She often told us many Indian customs: one, the old burial custom of placing as many belongings as possible in the casket with the person, of dropping a spray of evergreen in the grave and always every member of the family dropped a clod of dirt on the casket. Mother had the Indian fondness of pretty clothes and was always well dressed when going out. As a housekeeper and a mother of nine children, she was kept busy but always had time to attend church. She was one of the three charter members of First Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

My father being a Cherokee and connected with several prominent Cherokee families, mother became acquainted with them and regarded them as much her relation as her own people. She possessed the characteristic trait of the Indians, that of hospitality, and guests at our house were always welcome no matter how numerous. She was generous to a fault and no hungry man was turned from her door unfed, even if she had to cook an entire meal for him. Mother had an unusual aptness for caring for the sick and was constantly called upon in cases of illness as trained nurses and hospitals were unheard of in that time in this country.

When we children were old enough to care for ourselves, she devoted more time to her church duties, always attending missionary meeting and contributing generously.

She had a profound respect for my father and his fine intellect and education. She regarded him as the head of the household as did all Indian families regard the husband and father, always giving her support to anything he became interested in.

We lived at the same location in Muskogee from 1871 to 1913 when my mother died. The children were all born there. After her death, father went to live with my sister, Rosalee, Mrs. William M. Miles at 116 North D Street, Muskogee, where he died February 15, 1922.

Father and mother began housekeeping in a little two room house with a shed kitchen and as the family grew, a room was added as needed until we had an eight room house with three long porches that made a delightful place in which to live. A large grove of beautiful shade trees surrounded the house. After the property was disposed of, the house that had fallen into decay, was moved off and nothing remains to us but a pleasant memory of our childhood home. A three story brick apartment house, number 615 East Broadway, occupies part of the lot.

Mrs. Ross was a descendant of three of the most prominent families of the Muskogee Tribe in Alabama. With intermarriage of the McGillivray, Yargee and McQueen families, three of the most noted families of the tribe, were linked together, without whose records in war and peace the history of the Muskogee Tribe in Alabama would be sadly incomplete.

McGillivray Family

McGillivray, as a family name was introduced among the Muskogees of the Tallapoosa and Coosa river Country, by a run-away Scotch lad from Scotland, about the year 1736. He found his way to the Muskogee country, met pretty little Sehoi daughter of French Captain Marchand and his full blood Muskogee wife (call her squaw, if it makes you feel better). He married the girl, opened a trade among the Muskogees and became wealthy.

Lachlan McGillivray and Sehoi had three daughters and one son, the Great Alexander of the Muskogees, creeks, Seminoles and Chickamauga-Cherokees.

The daughters: Sophia, married Col. Ben Durant, Jeanet, married Leclerc Milfort, noted Frenchman, Sehoi, married Col. Tait of the British Army, Sehoi, married a second time to Col. Charles Weatherford, an Englishman, who was the father of William Weatherford or Red Eagle of Creek War note.

The son, Alexander, married Vacey Cornells, the daughter of Joseph Cornells from South Carolina, a French Huguenot. On the death of Chief McGillivray, Vacey married Zack McGirth of the Tory-English family.

Vacey Cornells had three brothers: George James (noted U. S. Scout), Dave (Ifa Tustunnugee) and two sisters: Lucy (Mrs Jno. Kean), Sapoya (Mrs. Mad dog's Son), Sapoya (Mrs. Capt. Walker

George Cornells was the father of Alexander Cornells, Ass't. U. S. Agent and National Interpreter.

Dave Cornells or Ifa Tustunnugee, was the father of the noted Opuithli Yahola

Alexander Cornells married Big Woman, daughter of Big Warrior of the Tuckbqtchee tribe and head chief of the Mus-kogees.

Yargee, son of Big Warrior, married Millie McQueen.

Muskogee Yargee, daughter of Yargee and Millie McQueen married Joshua Ross.

Peter McQueen, son of Old James McQueen, the Scotchman who lived ninety years among the Muskogee and lived to be one hundred and twenty eight years of age married Betsy, the daughter of Col. Ben Durant and Sophia Mc Gillivray.

Daughters: Millie, Nancy, Tallahassee

Yargee, son of Big Warrior, Chief of the Muskogee, Married all of the McQueen sisters.

Muskogee Yargee, daughter of Millie, married Joshua Ross.

CONCLUSION: Muskogee (Yargee) Ross, is therefore a great-grand-niece of General Alexander McGillivray.

The McGillivray family belongs exclusively to the Muskogees of the Coosa and Tallapoosa country of Alabama. In no way connected with the Creeks of Georgia.

The following families are related to the McGillivray-Sehoy union:

McQueens	Stiggins

Opuithli Yahola, Oscola, Tuckabatchee Micco, Tuckabatchee Harjo and other men of note were connected with this noted family.

Queen Ann, the daughter of the Old Scotchman, James McQueen, married Mr. Copinger, a white trader at Kan-hutki Town on the Tallaposa, and had a daughter, Polly Copinger, who married Billy Powell, the little Englishman, and became the mother of Assi Yahola and Oscola. Oscola left the Muskogee country upon reaching manhood, going to Florida and becoming Ear Chief for the Seminoles. Oscola was $\frac{1}{4}$ Muskogee, $\frac{3}{4}$ Scotch-English.
