LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Have you noticed how time seems to pass so quickly when you are having fun, busy, or sleeping? I have had fun, I've been busy and I have slept too, and the year has slipped into the great voyage-in-time which we call "History."

The Workshop in September, the book donations, the monthly programs were all productive endeavors.

We enter '93 with great expectations.

The $1,000 grant received from the Fort Howard Corp. will encourage our fund raising committee to come up with innovative ways to raise additional funds for a microfilm reader for the library.

We are awaiting the arrival of the 1920 census microfilm. (Oklahoma)

And, of course, we are still looking for that one bit of elusive information which we know is just around the corner - but 'which corner'?

Let's not forget the election of new officers is coming up in April.

I, We owe a great deal to our present Board Members. They have done their tasks well and prodded me along when I needed it. Thanks.

Your President

Cleo Shamblin

JOHN CRAWFORD HILL

CIVIL WAR SOLDIER

1840 - 1910

Buried Harnage Cemetery, Muskogee, OK.

Submitted by Polly Hill Page
Great granddaughter of John C. Hill

John Crawford HILL was born April 23, 1840 in Fairfield County South Carolina to Reuben F. and Elizabeth Ellen (HOUCH) HILL. He was the first of five children born to Elizabeth. A sister, Susannah, was born in 1844 and a brother, Henry W. was born in 1846. He later had two half brothers, James L. W. born 1852 and Matthew S. born in 1855.

The family lived on Reuben HILL'S plantation on John's Creek adjoining the lands of his father on the waters of Sandy River, Fairfield County, South Carolina.

John C.'s father died in 1848, and in 1850, his mother married Jacob R. HILL who was a nephew of her late husband. The plantation was auctioned off in 1853. The amount of the estate came to $3,044.79 including the 150 acre home place. The slaves were sold in 1859 in Walker County, Georgia. They consisted of one male under 5 years, one male age 20-30, one female age 15-20, two male slaves under 10 and one female slave age 10-20.

After the sale, the family moved to Chattooga County in Georgia where they purchased a farm and the children attended school. The step-father died in 1859. The 1860 census shows John C. 20 years old living with his widowed mother and brothers and sisters.

John C. married Mary C. HOWELL and enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1861. He was assigned to Co. K, 21st Georgia Infantry Regiment. His enlistment papers were signed by Captain ACKRIDGE on August 28, 1861.

The muster roll for Company K for the month of November 1861 shows "John C. HILL sick at Sudley Church Hospital, VA." The December roll shows "Sick at Culpepper, VA, suffering from pneumonia.

The 21st Regiment was stationed at Camp E.K. Smith near Manassas. The regiment was included in the Doles-Cook Brigade under General Trimble's command and assigned to Ewell's Division. John C. HILL was first a private and a sharpshooter, then a sergeant second class.

May 25, 1862, John C. was with the regiment at the Battle of Winchester, which was one of General T.J. "Stonewall" Jackson's first victories. Also he was in the "Seven Days" action before Richmond in June of 1862, at the second Battle of Manassas or Bull Run, at Sharpsburg (Antietam), and Fredericksburg December 13, 1862. He was ill when the Battle of Chancellerville was fought, and present at the Battle of Gettysburg, July 1st, 2nd, and 3rd of 1863.

John C. came home on leave in the early part of 1864. His brother, Henry, who was in poor health, thin and pale when John left for the service, was now healthy and robust, weighing nearly 200 pounds. This was attributed to the fact that he had consumed an entire barrel of Peach Brandy in a period of two years. The hogshead of brandy had been buried in the ground for safe keeping and Henry consumed the liquid by lying face down and siphoning the brandy with a hollowed cane. Since Henry was in good health and the fact that the Bushwackers were active in the region, John C. felt Henry would be safer in the army than at home. Henry was captured by Federal forces on May 21, 1864 and was held prisoner until June 14, 1865, when he was released and returned home at age 17.

After John C. returned to the army, the regiment was ordered to Richmond where he received a severe thigh wound at the Battle of Drewry's Bluff on May 16, 1864. Captain ACKRIDGE was killed in that battle. John C. was admitted to Chimborazo Hospital No. 2 at Richmond when he was wounded. At the end of the war, the records show "John C. Hill, 2nd Sgt. 21st GA Inf. Reg. Co. K Confederate States Army, name appears as a signature on an Oath of Allegiance and he was allowed to return home." Dated May 21, 1865. Other information given was - complexion, fair; hair, light; eyes, blue; height, 5ft. 9 in.; surrendered at Chattanooga, TN on May 17, 1865 and subscribed to oath May 21, 1865.

John C. and Mary C. (HOWELL) HILL had 5 children including one daughter who was born and died in 1862 while he was in the army.

Around 1871, the family moved to Mississippi when John's wife died. He married again in 1876 to Amanda Jane ANDERSON and they returned to Georgia where a son and daughter were born. They moved to Arkansas in 1880. Two other children were born near the Scott County line in Arkansas.

In 1883, John C. and family moved across the line into Indian Territory, living first in Choctaw Nation before moving into Cherokee Nation, a half mile from Dwight Mission. John's mother and two brothers lived nearby and when his mother died in 1895, she was buried in Dwight Mission Cemetery.

John C. was a devout Christian and served as a minister in the Diciples of Christ Church and led the services at various places in the Sallisaw, Vian, and Marble City neighborhood in the Cherokee Nation.

In the fall of 1901, the family moved to 12 miles east of Okmulgee, the capitol of the Creek Nation. John's farm was fenced in within the boundaries of the Callahan Ranch.

In 1907, the family moved to Muskogee, Oklahoma and farmed in the bend of the Arkansas River known as the Gooseneck Bend neighborhood. John C. died December 3, 1910 and was buried in a small cemetery, sometimes called Harnage Cemetery which is located 5 miles east of Muskogee. He has a Confederate Military tombstone marking his grave.

*Vet of Civil War
Is Popular Person
At Local Hospital*

Albert Linton Is Known to All;
Was in 66 Battles and Skirmishes in War Between States

"Hello, Boy Scout," that's how patients at the United States Veterans hospital hail Albert Linton, veteran of the Civil War, who is a patient there now. He is popular all over the hospital, compliments all the nurses and tells tales of the war to all the men. "I'm past fifty," he admits when one asks his age, but on being pressed states that he celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday on May 31.

Mr. Linton enlisted in the eighth Iowa Cavalry when he was only 17. "Dad took me out, though," he explained. He re-enlisted later, with his brother, James Linton, who died on a packet boat enroute from Helene, Ill. to St. Louis. "I was in 66 battles and skirmishes," says Linton. "The last six weeks of the war we were cut off and the Confederates shot at us every day. We were driven back from Atlanta to Nashville. I was in three battles at Franklin, hardest day's fighting, ever was, and at Tuscaloosa. My horse got shot there. Had several horses shot under me. They'd just as soon kill a horse as a man. I was never wounded."

Though Mr. Linton is in ill health, he's so cheerful that all the boys enjoy him.

Everyone on the post from Dr. L.H. Webb, medical officer in charge, on down, has a greeting for him.

Mr. Linton's home is at Alva. He had a farm near there for a number of years, and recently operated a swimming pool there. He has nine children, seven girls and two boys, who live at various places in the middle west.

Muskogee Daily Phoenix, November 27, 1932, p. 1.

101 YEARS YOUNG

John Black, aged 101 years, was a business visitor in Muskogee Saturday evening. He was making application for his portion of the Eastern Cherokee funds. Black, who is of Indian descent, came to the Indian Territory with the Cherokees when they migrated from Alabama. He later went to Arkansas and at the outbreak of the Civil War was fifty five years of age.

Black lives south of Muskogee and is as frisky as a school boy.

ENGAGED 296 TIMES, HAS MARRYING FEVER AND MILLIONS COMING

Muskogee Times Democrat. February 23, 1906

William Henry Lauterbach of Porum, I.T. "may be crazy but he ain't no fool." Now William's whole aim and object in life at the present time is to take unto himself a frau. Mr. Lauterbach has displayed a mighty good "brand of philosophy" when he stipulated he does not care what shade of complexion she is, just so long as she is an orphan.

The old fellow who says he is 50 years along in life's rolling pathway bumped into the editorial rooms of the Times Democrat yesterday afternoon and said he would like to advertise for a wife. As everyone knows that all newspaper men are charitable, especially when the bee of love gets buzzing around a man's heart, they took the old man and his money also, and prepared the ad that will be found in today's want columns.

William Henry was turned over to the tender mercies of a reporter who questioned him as to his desires, his hopes, his ambitions, his mode and manner of life, his position and his religion.

"I want a girl from 12 to 25 to be my wife. I have got a lot of money promised me from an estate back in New Jersey whenever I get married. The estate was left by my uncle, Joe Pack, a full blood Dutchman who married my aunt, Mollie Ann Lauterbach, and they tell me it amounts to more than $3,000,000. Just you put in the advertisement that they needn't send no photographing. I don't keer what they look like. She must be good looking, but I'll take her word for that. I have been engaged 296 times, but I never got married and the last time I advertised for a wife, I took letters out of the post office by the armful, but they all wanted to marry me for my money."

"I have lived in the territory since I was 8 years old and for eight years I lived on shrubs and buds off the trees, and I would climb a tree and eat them like a squirrel when I used to live around Webbers Falls. I've been getting lonely lately and I need that money, so I come to Muskogee today to buy some cartridges and to put an ad in your paper to get a wife."

"I was born in Illinois and came to the territory when a boy and have lived here since, although I took a trip to St. Louis, Chicago and Philadelphia once. I'm half Irish and half Dutch and when I first came to the territory I followed hunting, for there was plenty of game. Nowadays I farm or do anything else I can get to do. I live four miles northeast of Porum, and the big estate is about 85 miles southwest of Hoboken, N.J."

William H. can neither read or write and he was clothed today in a ragged blue coat, blue jean trousers and an old cap, and spoke his philosophy all about the Times Democrat office wherever he could find anyone that had a minute to spend in conversation.

The Times Democrat wishes Mr. Lauterbach success in his new venture and it is for this reason that this story was written in order to stimulate the matrimonial market which has been rather sluggish of late. Girls! $3,000,000 isn't hanging around on every bush, and with the free use of a bar or two of Castile soap, a clean shave and a new suit of clothes, he will stack up with any man in a good sized crowd.

NOTE: Virginia Vann Perry

The above item triggered memories of stories about Bill Lauterbach told to me by my mother, Hazel McClure Vann, who married my father, Clem Vann, August 29, 1918. I remember she said Bill advertised for a wife once, but that was from hearsay as she was only 5 years old when the above story appeared in the paper. However, her older sister, Katherine (Kate) McClure, married William Vann, my father's brother and mother was occasionally a visitor at the Vann ranch. Mother said Bill Lauterbach ordered two dolls from the Sears, Roebuck and Co. Catalog and sewed clothes for them with a large darning needle -- even made hats and wired the brims. One he named Mabel Roebuck - I don't remember the other. Mom would tell about her sister and sister-in-law, Sophia, looking at the dolls under Bill's watchful eye -- trying on the dresses and hats. My Aunt Kate put one doll's hat on backward and Bill said "H--- Kate you know that's not the way it goes!" He reached for the doll and set it right. Mother said she was only about 11 or 12 years old and was afraid he would get mad.

Bill worked on the Vann ranch which consisted of the original allotments of my grandfather and my father, plus other land. They were in the cattle business as "H.J. Vann & Son." The home place built in 1879 still stands and as Bill said is "about 4 miles northeast of Porum." In those days people such as Bill were termed "simple" and I would imagine, did odd jobs and farm work around the ranch. I do not recall a mention of ranch work with the cattle. The ranch hands and boys in the family slept in a large room off from the house called the "boy's room" (the bunk house.)

My father, Clem Vann, was a special favorite of Bill. One example of his loyalty and devotion to dad was related to us by one of the ranch hands, Aud Weaver. He told how Bill would drag my Dad's bed over before the fireplace to keep it warm until Dad came in -- no matter how late. Aud would pretend he was going to sleep in the warm bed and Bill would stand over it with the fireplace poker to keep him out. Aud said Bill would actually shake the poker in his face and he believed Bill would not have hesitated to hit him with it if he had actually crawled in the bed. Aud Weaver, incidentally, later worked as sheriff at the famous tourist attraction, Knotts Berry Farm in California. I remember him as a very good friend of my father and mother - a tall, lanky Cherokee, made even taller by boots and wide brimmed Stetson hat.

I do not know when or where Bill Lauterbach died or where he is buried. I wish I did and wish I knew whether or not his claim to a fortune was true - maybe it was.

BOOK REVIEW

The year is 1855. All the known members of the Jewett family received invitations to a reunion in Rowley, Massachusetts. The expressed purposes of the reunion were "to strengthen the bonds of common brotherhood" and also "to adopt measures for obtaining such history facts as will perfect the genealogy of the Jewett Family and perpetuate the facts by publication."

This was a "Cadillac" model in the line of family reunions--with printed programs, processions, a band, a choir, orations, officers, and (although barely mentioned) good food. The introduction to History and Genealogy of the Jewetts of America even includes the new words to three melodies written especially for the reunion. I was charmed by the family's solidarity:

(tune , "Auld Land Syne")

Then here's a hand, a Jewett's hand which each will pledge the other,
That eye for God and Truth we'll stand,
and ne'er forget a brother

It appears the reunion was an enormous success, and resulted in the collection of huge amounts of historical data. Several family members worked on collecting and arranging the information. Then the author of the resulting two volumes, Dr. Frederic Clarke Jewett, took the existent research, added fourteen years of his own, and painstakingly catalogued it all. Eleven generations are traced with 11,042 descendants identified who lived between the years of 1600 and 1900. In the facsimile reprint published by Heritage Books, Inc., a useful addition is a 120 page alphabetical index of family members.

The history begins with Edward Jewett, the father of the first Jewetts who came to America. Edward Jewett was born in 1580 and died in 1614. A copy of his will, which is on file in the Archbishopric of York, is included in the text. The volumes include a truly impressive collection of land and tax records, wills, inventories of estates, epitahs, obituaries, personal correspondence, newspaper articles, minutes from town meetings and photographs.

The Jewett family were Puritans who came from Hull, England with ship Captain Exekiel Rogers. The vessel, with about 60 passengers, landed in Boston about 1 December 1638. The families covered in the genealogy lived mainly in the northeast and midwest.

Heritage Books donated these volumes to the Muskogee Library. Even if one is not related to any of the people delineated, the books show just what genealogical research can achieve.
